ISO 14001:2026 Requirements Structure

Clause 4.1 External & Internal Issues

Implementing an OH&S management system is a strategic decision influenced by the 'context of the organization', which means all the internal and external issues relevant to the organization. For example:

Internal Issues	External Issues
Governance, structure, roles and accountabilities	Economic factors (e.g. exchange rates, economic situation, inflation, availability of credit)
Policies, objectives, strategies	Market factors (e.g. competition, trends in customer growth, market stability, supply chain relationships)
Introduction of new products, software, tools, premises and equipment	Technological factors (e.g. new technology, materials and equipment, patents expiring)
Capabilities	Trade union regulations or industry-related regulations
Company culture
Working time arrangements etc

The clause emphasises a requirement to understand the needs and expectations of workers and other interested parties and determine the internal and external issues.

List of Maintain Documented Information as per ISO 14001:2026 and ISO 45001:2018
